Joyce Valenza is the teacher-librarian at Springfield Township High School, Philadelphia http://www.sdst.org/shs/library/. Her innovative and practical advice to guide learners in new and emerging information and communications landscapes has received global attention and acclaim across the international education community. Joyce is a blogger for School Library Journal, a former tech columnist for the Philadelphia Inquirer and a lecturer on education issues and technology. Joyce recently published 14 Ways K-12 Libraries Can Teach Social Media and her own Manifesto for 21st Century School Librarians.

Joyce can’t live without PageFlakes, NetVibes, iGoogle, Wikispaces for Teachers, Animoto, VoiceThread, Glogster, Twitter, Google Docs, Google Custom Search . . . Can you?

This is the best time in history to be a teacher-librarian. Major shifts in our information and communication landscapes present new opportunities for librarians to teach and lead in areas that were always considered part of their role, helping learners of all ages effectively use, manage, evaluate, organize and communicate information, and to love reading in its glorious new variety.
